Remove the Friction

This month we ask how easy do operators make it for customers to engage with them?

If you are like me, every couple of years you get a letter or email from your gas and electricity company telling you that your current 'deal' is about to expire. They then say and I paraphrase that they will then put you on worse tariff whilst at the same time offering you something slightly better but only if you sign up for another 18 months or two years. So you then dig out the last set of bills, something you haven't done since the last time your contract expired, to see what you should do.

You are then faced with a couple of pages of numbers and codes which aren't easy to understand. In most cases I have ended up defaulting to the recommended new tariff, breathed a sigh of relief and put everything away until next time. Not exactly a great experience.

My particular bugbear is when I do try and contact my providers I am left on hold for ages because "we are experiencing high level of calls at the moment". Of course you are, everyone is trying to understand their bills!

Unfortunately being difficult to deal with isn't the sole preserve of utility companies. When it comes to the hospitality sector many pubs and restaurants also seem to go out of their way to do the same.

The best operators make it as easy as possible for customer to engage with them – they remove the friction.

Window to the world

Although I still occasionally come across a restaurant or pub which doesn't have a website these are definitely the exceptions. To be fair in most cases if they don't have a dedicated website they do have their own Facebook account which they use instead. Regardless of which route you take, the key is to make sure your content is easy to navigate and informative.

Economic Headlines

These headlines are from our Economic Bulletin.

CPI for June 2018 was +2.4% flat on +2.4% in May, good news for consumers and it may also delay the Bank of England raising interest rates.

Latest figures from the ONS show that unemployment remained at 4.2%, as wage growth is now at its lowest level in 6 months.

The GDP estimate 3 months to May 2018 was +0.2%, modest growth driven by the services sector, which offset falling construction and industrial output.

Retail Headlines

These headlines are from our Retail Bulletin.

Retail sales rose +2.9% in June 2018 vs. June 2017, as the World Cup and hot weather resulted in mixed results across the retail sectors.

Although all 4 major sectors saw volume and value growth food led stores were the main winners from the World Cup and good weather.

Latest 12 week figures saw the Grocery Market grow by +3.6%, as sales of alcohol surged to £287m for the week England played Columbia and Sweden.

RETAIL VOLUMES	+2.9%

Beer Update

Latest data from the British Beer & Pub Association shows that beer sales in Q2 2018 were up +3.6% on the same quarter a year ago.

The growth was driven by sales through Supermarkets & Convenience Stores as sales through Pubs, Bars & Restaurants fell.

Sales through Pubs, Bars & Restaurants in the UK in Q1 were down (1.0%). This compares to a decline of (1.9%) in Q1 this year and a decline of (0.1%) in Q2 in 2017.

Sales through Supermarkets & Convenience Stores in the UK in Q1 were up +7.7% compared to the same quarter last year.

This compares to a decline of (1.5%) in Q1 and a growth of +2.0% in Q2 in 2017.

Total sales on a MAT basis are up +0.4%.

Supermarket Update

Latest 12 week figures saw the Grocery Market grow by +3.6%, as sales of alcohol surged to £287m for the week England played Columbia and Sweden.

Grocery inflation is +1.8% for the 12 week period ending 15th July 2018.

Over the past month, football-frenzied customers visited supermarkets an extra 13 million times as they hurried to stock up on World Cup-viewing essentials, with alcohol the stand-out winner.

Asda saw sales jump +3.7% to post its strongest growth in more than 5 years, and it was the best performing of the big four for the 1st time since Dec-14.

Over the past 12 weeks Co-op grew by +6.4% – its highest recorded since October 2011.
